

Better, by Design

Usually in the world of sound and cinema, you have to choose between great design and great performance. There are exceptions of course, but in general, if it looks good, it's unlikely to sound good, and for some reason, if it sounds good, it very rarely looks good.

At Artcoustic, we have never accepted this idea.

So when you buy an Artcoustic speaker, you get the best of both worlds. They sound great, because we have brought years of knowledge and experience to bear on designing speakers that reproduce music and movie soundtracks faithfully, accurately and in breathtaking detail. And they appeal to the eye because we came up with the idea of interchangeable screens.

SOUND ADVICE Vol. 29, August, 24th 2007
